

Drug Driving: Reasons to be paranoid

It is against the law to drive under the influence of illegal drugs, or if you have certain drugs above a specified level in your blood.

The limits set for illegal drugs are very low; just a small amount could put you over the limit.

Similar to drink driving, the police have a roadside test that makes it easier to detect those who are driving under the influence of illegal drugs.

Don't drug drive

Taking illegal drugs impairs your driving ability and is extremely dangerous. Get caught drug driving and you could face:

- An unlimited fine
- A minimum 12 month driving ban
- Up to 6 months in prison
- A criminal record
- An endorsement on your driving license for 11 years

Certain medicines can also affect your ability to drive. Check with your doctor or pharmacist.

Search THINK drug driving for more information.